A Cosmopolitan Tradition

Our motto, which translates as “Acting for people – through worldwide trade”, can be seen in the daily work of all employees throughout the Feddersen Group.

With their own branches in Europe and overseas, the firms within the Feddersen Group represent numerous prominent companies from the chemicals sector as well as the capital and consumer goods industries. Here our representative agencies and sales offices are an indispensable aid to these companies, helping them to extend their operations to new and unfamiliar markets.

Export trade, however, is only one focus in our activities. In addition to this, we are also involved in the distribution of plastics in Europe and Asia, in the stainless steel business as well as in applications-related development and the production of special plastics.

Today’s Feddersen Group came into being in 1949. It evolved from K.D. Feddersen & Co., a company founded by the Hamburg entrepreneur Karl-Detlef Feddersen. At the head of the group now is K. D. Feddersen Holding, which performs key tasks for the member companies and participating interests at home and abroad. Sole owner of this holding company is the K.D. Feddersen Foundation, which carries out charitable work largely financed by the profits of the Feddersen Group.

Global Network

Founded in 1919 as “Norddeutsche Ueberseegesellschaft”, K. D. Feddersen & Co. Ueberseegesellschaft mbH is engaged in the worldwide trade of raw materials, chemicals and technical products for more than 90 years.

Our company is organized in five divisions: “International Trade”; “Chemical Specialities”; “Feed/Food/Fertilizer”; “Agrochemicals” and the “Technical Division”. By these specialized divisions we cover all major industries and ensure that our customers are provided with a competent contact person for their requirements.

With the help of our representative offices and partners we have direct access to important markets worldwide. Our branch offices in Brazil, Mexico, China, Vietnam and Indonesia; our joint ventures in the Philippines and Thailand as well as our exclusive agents worldwide are the basis and link to an excellent global network of customers and suppliers.

Further to this, we are offering a wide range of services to our customers. Product sourcing is one of our main services, in which we organize the strategic search and procurement of products, raw materials and market information according to the requirement of our customers. For this, we keep a worldwide supplier base, which is constantly updated and extended. Our expertise and long-time experience in the markets enables us to act swiftly and precisely on the requirements of our customers and respond with a reliable and competitive source for the inquired products.

Our logistics department ensures that all orders are expedited and shipped precisely as well as efficiently. Also, many decades of experience in this field make our company a competent partner for our customers, particularly when it comes to finding individual freight/shipping solutions or for shipments of specialized products.

For companies, which plan to promote their products in overseas markets, we can provide a market analysis of the target market as well as a market study for the products in question. Our branch offices have profound experience in the markets and can provide competent and precise market data. We can support customers and suppliers professionally in their plan to introduce new products to a market. We are able to provide important commercial and cultural recommendations with regards to foreign markets.

Inspiring Innovations – Enabling Transformation

K.D. Feddersen GmbH & Co. KG specializes in the distribution and market development of engineering thermoplastic polymers on the European, Asian and Latin American markets.

Our aim is the success of our customers. With this in mind, we strive to meet their expectations for innovative, flexible solutions every day. Our consulting service provides fast, customised expertise at the customers' premises. Our product portfolio of reputable, internationally active polymer manufacturers guarantees consistent, first-class product quality and highly innovative new and ongoing developments in line with market requirements.

Our experienced application engineers are the first point to contact for technical questions and provide comprehensive support, from product selection to the finished part. Together with our sister company in the Feddersen Group, we develop tailor-made products and solution concepts involving technical compounds and masterbatches.

As specialists in innovative and applications-oriented solutions, we offer advisory support in the development of new components, assistance in technical issues as well as individual supply concepts.

Thanks to our customer-focused demand, distribution, and production planning, the monitoring and analysis of order fulfilment and our logistics management assure that our customers can concentrate exclusively on their core area of expertise.

High-tech for Intelligent Solutions

AKRO-PLASTIC – Your specialist for innovative and application-oriented plastic compounds

Over the last 20 years we have experienced constant growth. Today we dispose of extensive know-how in the field of plastic compounding, while annually producing more than 40,000 tons. During this process of evolution, we have specialized in engineering plastics – a market segment we are continuously developing innovative solutions for.

Our customers include companies with worldwide operations as well as small enterprises. Alongside our production facilities in China and our subsidiary, the masterbatch producer AF-COLOR, we offer you a large international network, ranging from development to sales. And in addition to this, we cooperate closely with our partner companies within the Feddersen Group.

Our available product range for customers includes market standards as well as individual developments and special services. Apart from our products AKROMID®, AKROLOY® and AKROLEN® PP, which can be used almost everywhere in industry, our contract compounding division and our accredited test laboratory enable us to offer a complete service in connection with production and development of engineering plastics.

AF-COLOR stands for manufacturing high-grade technical masterbatches

As a subsidiary of AKRO-PLASTIC GmbH, AF-COLOR offers extensive expert knowledge in the field of colour and additive concentrates, in research and development and also in production. Many masterbatches can be individually designed on the basis of our own developments: AF-Color®, AF-Carbon® and AF-Complex®.
